Forecast for Friday 20 Aug 2021

Weather: A cloudy start Friday morning, although some eastern areas may see some brighter spells from mid-morning. It will continue cloudy throughout the afternoon, perhaps with an occasional brighter spell. Thicker cloud will gradually push in from the west during the evening with an increasing risk of a little light rain or drizzle.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 30% increasing to 60% by midday. Lowering again to 30% after dusk.

Visibility: Generally good to moderate, however with banks of cloud with bases from 500-600m during the morning, visibilities near summits will be limited. Cloud bases generally lifting to 700-800m from late morning, however occasional shreds of cloud with bases near 500m may temporally reduce visibilities near summits during the afternoon. Outbreaks of rain and drizzle from the evening resulting in visibilities becoming poor later.

Forecast for Saturday 21 Aug 2021

Weather: Cloudy with a band of persistent rain, locally heavy moving east across the Brecon Beacons during the morning. Conditions improving slowly during the afternoon as the rain clears with sunny or brighter spells developing in the far west of the park later in the afternoon.

Maximum wind: Southerly 10-15mph.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 20% rising to 40% from late afternoon.

Visibility: Generally moderate to poor during the morning as rain pushes eastwards, areas of cloud with bases from 300-400m will reduce visibilities on slopes and summits throughout the day. Visibilities improve during the afternoon as the rain clears, however cloud will be slow to lift with areas of cloud with bases from 400-500m throughout the afternoon.

Temperature: Valleys: Plus 13 Celsius becoming plus 18 Celsius.
At 600m: Plus 9 Celsius becoming plus 12 Celsius.
Freezing level: Above the summits.
